The Shelton Trace National Recreation Trail (Trail #100) traverses the entire length of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Part of the Shelton Trace passes through the Red River Gorge. The trail is marked by a diamond-shaped blaze or a turtle symbol.

WARNING

Dangerous Cliffs

The cliffines of the Red River Gorge are beautiful, but they are also dangerous. Please be careful.

Natural Bridge State Resort Park, adjacent to Red River Gorge Geological Area, is administered by Kentucky Dept. of Parks. It offers lodge rooms, cabins, dining facilities, and two developed campgrounds. For more information, call the park at (606) 663-2214, or (800) 255-PARK (7275)

DANIEL BOONE National Forest

Trails within the Red River Gorge have been designated National Recreation Trails. These trails are open to hiking only. Mountain bikes and all motorized vehicles are prohibited on trails in the Red River Gorge. Horses are permitted on designated Trails.

Nada Tunnel. An interesting way to enter the Red River Gorge is through the 900-foot Nada Tunnel, located along KY 77. This tunnel, open to one-lane traffic only, was built for use by a logging railroad during the early 1900's.

Hiking Trails. Many arches in the Gorge can be found or viewed from the 60 miles of hiking trails. One of the best known and most accessible arches is Sky Bridge, 75 feet long and 23 feet high.

Cifty Wilderness. Within the Gorge is Cifty Wilderness, a rugged and undeveloped area designated as wilderness by Congress in 1985. This 12,646-acre area features arches, rock shelters, and towering cliffs encircling steep, forested slopes and narrow stream valleys.

Natural Stone Arches. The number, size, and variety of natural stone arches in the Gorge contribute to its uniqueness. Sculpted by 70 million years of wind and water, the Gorge offers spectacular views of heavily forested slopes, ridges, and cliffs that provide a stunning backdrop for more than 100 natural arches.

Note: Visitors are required to purchase a pass for parking overnight in the Gorge and Indian Creek area (between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.). Passes are available from local stores and at the District Office in Stanton.

WELCOME to the Red River Gorge Geological Area, a unique and scenic natural area designated and managed by the USDA Forest Service. A National Natural Landmark, the Gorge is a part of the Daniel Boone National Forest. It is managed for year-round public use and enjoyment and to protect its watershed, wildlife, spectacular geological features, primitive character, and public safety.

All artifacts and cultural resources are protected by state and federal law. Report looting or vandalism to the Stanton District Office.

- Do not disturb the soil, dig, or move rocks.
- Obey all signs and encourage others to do the same.

These fragile archaeological resources are unmistakable evidence of earlier lives - a common inheritance from past generations with whom we have shared this land. Once destroyed they are gone forever. To preserve these sites:

- Do not disturb rock shelters.
- Do not collect or dig for artifacts.

Archaeology. Archaeological studies are providing insight into the lives of prehistoric people who lived in the Gorge. These Native Americans left no written records, but archaeological sites scattered throughout the Gorge provide many clues about how they lived. In later times, history records that the area was occupied by the Shawnee and other tribes, and adventurers such as Christopher Gist, Dr. Thomas Walker, and Daniel Boone preceded settlement by colonial Europeans moving west. Campsites, old buildings, and historic farmsteads still tell their stories.

The Red River. Kentucky's first National Wild and Scenic River, the Red River, offers the canoeist a memorable trip.

Koomer Ridge Campground is a U.S. Fee Area with trailer/tent spaces, vault toilets, fire grills, lantern posts, drinking water, picnic tables, and an amphitheater. Sites are available on a first-come, first-served basis. Tent sites remain open year-round, although no water is available during the off season. Koomer Ridge is in full operation from mid-April through the end of October.

WARNING
Dangerous Cliffs

The clifflines of the Red River Gorge are beautiful, but they are also dangerous. Every year, visitors are injured or killed by a fall from a cliff.

- Avoid camping near the edge of cliffs. You may be closer to the edge than you realize.
- Plan to arrive at your destination before dark.
- Alcohol and cliffs don't mix! If you drink, avoid getting close to cliffs.
- Foot travel after dark is not safe. If you must travel after dark, stay in familiar areas and use a flashlight.
- Watch your footing when walking near cliffs. Trees and bushes can't be trusted to hold you if you slip.
- Watch your children carefully, and keep them close to you at all times. Don't let them run.

CLIFFLINE SAFETY

Gladie Cultural-Environmental Learning Center. Learn about the cultural heritage, unique resources and spectacular geology of the area. The Center provides trail, camping and other information. Maps, passes, books and souvenirs are available for purchase. The Center is open seven days a week during spring through fall from 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Gladie Historic Site. The Gladie Cabin, a reconstructed log house, is the only structure in the Gorge that dates back to the late 1800's.

Plants and Animals. The Gorge supports an unusual array of plant and animal life. Geographic location, topography, and glacial history contribute to the diversity of the area. A number of endangered, threatened, sensitive, and rare species of plants and animals make the Gorge their home. The Forest Service and other agencies are working to protect these species and their habitat.

Regulations
Observe these simple rules to help protect the forest and ensure a safe and pleasurable trip for you and other forest users.

Camping is NOT permitted:

- Within 300 feet of any road.
- Within 300 feet of any developed trail.
- In any picnic or parking area.

Do not camp in rockshelters. These sensitive areas provide critical habitats for plants and animals.

1. Camping is PROHIBITED within 100 feet of the base of any cliff, or the back of any rockshelter.

2. YOU ARE PROHIBITED from building, maintaining, attending, or using a fire, campfire, or stove fire within 100 feet of the base of any cliff, or the back of any rockshelter.

• Rock climbing is permitted. However, new route development must be approved by the Forest Service. Climbing and rappelling are NOT PERMITTED within 300 feet of Sky Bridge, Gray's Arch, Nada Tunnel, and Chimney Rock Overlook, and other areas as posted.

• Keep vehicles on established roads. All vehicle traffic is restricted to roads in the Geological Area.

• Parking on Tunnel Ridge Road is limited to designated parking sites only.

• You must purchase a pass for parking overnight in the Gorge and Indian Creek area (between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.). Passes are available from local stores and at the District Office in Stanton.
